

SYNDEY HELLER

Sydney Heller is a sketch comedian, actress, singer, improviser and playwright. The twenty-two year old has been doing improv since the age of twelve and was recently accepted into Advanced Lab at the Groundlings. She has written for Amy Poehler's Smart Girls and the 2015 CBS Diversity Showcase. She also acts and writes on the late night comedy show, After Dark with Julian Clark, which is streamed on Amazon and filmed at Second City in front of a live audience. She and her sketch comedy partner, Olivia Delaurentis, have a YouTube channel called Barely Legal Comedy that features original video sketches and a web series called Sugar Babies. Together they have won multiple improv competitions and will be screening the pilot of Sugar Babies at various 2017 film festivals.

Sydney is a recent graduate of UCLA's School of Theater, Film, and Television, but does not show school pride because the combination of blue and yellow does not look good on her skin tone.
