SOPHIA RUMBEA

SAG-AFTRA

Sophia is an Italian-Ecuadorian actress born and raised in East New York, Brooklyn. She spent most of her time at Broadway Dance Center and in acting classes at Stella Adler. While the arts are her first love, academia remains a close second. She even took a break from dance and acting to study Critical Theory of Literature and Sustainability at Stony Brook University. After graduating, she returned to acting. Most recently, you can see her in the new series "Great Kills" on TUBI, the feature film "Fog" set to hit Amazon Prime this year, and the super exciting pilot "Degeneration!" You may also see her in various commercials for brands like Garnier and Lancome.
